DOWNS NAZI PLANE

Second Lieut. Arnold D. Jaqua (above) of South Bend, Ind., shot down one Messerschmitt and damaged another as U. S. fighter planes won their first major victory of the Middle East war, according to a statement from U. S. army headquarters at Cairo, Egypt. Twelve American planes fought 20 Nazi craft over the German lines and shot down two of them.

HEAVY BOMBS BLAST COLOGNE

Hundreds of RAF Planes Sent Into German Industrial Area.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 16—Britain's biggest bombs fell in crushing weight on Cologne last night from a raiding force of hundreds of great four-motored bombers after the RAF virtually had ignored the blackened Rhineland city in the four and a half months since it was made the target of history's first thousand-plane raid.

The industrial Rhineland—Germany's "bomb alley"—was the general target of the assault, probably one of the largest against the Nazi homeland in weeks.

Cologne apparently was the focus of the assault which, the German radio said, hit widely scattered centers.

The British reported losing 18 planes in the night attack and the Germans put British losses at 22.

"Block busters"—the RAF's devastating two-ton bombs—were dropped on carefully selected targets in the whole area and some of the biggest were saved for Cologne, attacked for the 110th recorded time and the first since a great area of it was pulverized by an air force of 1,130 planes on the night of May 30.

The last previous raid on the Rhineland occurred a week ago when single bombers made a daylight attack on the upper Rhineland region.

Great Britain meanwhile had a quiet night except for a southeast coast town which was visited by two German raiders early today. There were no casualties.

DISORDER REPORTED IN FRENCH CITIES

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 16—Violent disorders have broken out in the unoccupied zone of France as the Nazis increased their pressure to get French workers to go to Germany, dispatches to the Swiss press reported today.

Lyon, Chambery and Annecy were mentioned as trouble centers in a dispatch to the Tribune De Lausanne, which said that, while details were lacking, it "is known that violent outbreaks occurred and that public forces (whether police, gendarmes, or army units was not specified) had to intervene, and that blood flowed."

This dispatch said there were unconfirmed reports "that bombs were thrown, that the public forces had used weapons, chiefly hand grenades, that railway stations and other strategic points were occupied by troops."

Vichy sources, however, said officials of the Laval government were minimizing the extent of the disorders and insisting that it was not yet known that bloodshed had occurred.

The outbreaks were said to have started when the Nazis posted in factories lists of workers who were asked to go to Germany. It was said they were not actually requisitioned, as has been done in Germany, but were asked to "volunteer."

At Chambery, the reports said, the railway line was tied up as workers refused to move trains. Trouble was reported also in the Lyon railway yards, while at Annecy women paraded with placards declaring, "we will not let our husbands go to Germany."

Marion Co. Civilian Defense To Share in War Chest Funds

Countywide Organization Includes 3,400 Volunteers Ready To Function in Case of Emergency.

Herewith is the second of a series of articles on activities to share in the Marion County United War Chest. The series is published by The Star to acquaint its readers with the activities of each agency.

The activities of approximately 3,400 Marion county residents connected with the countywide civilian defense organization are at stake in the Marion County United War Chest campaign to begin Monday.

"We have civilian defense for the same reason people carry fire insurance on their homes," W. R. Martin, Marion county coordinator of civilian defense, said in discussing that organization's $25,000 budget that is one of the big items in the $104,361.73 goal.

"We carry fire insurance in the hope that we'll never use it, but we wouldn't go a day without it because of the constant possibility of disaster." Mr. Martin continued. "The same thing applies to civilian defense. The only safe thing to do is provide protection. The cost of this protection for a year's time will average about 65 cents per person in Marion county on the basis of the $25,000 budget."

Enrollment of 3,000

From its modest beginning, civilian defense in Marion county has grown until it embraces about 3,000 active members in Marion city. When the rural communities have completed their organizations, another 1,400 will have been brought into active participation. Actually, Mr. Martin pointed out, everyone is a member because the whole plan depends on public cooperation with the qualified air raid wardens and other units of the organization.

Everyone in Marion county will be asked to contribute to the civilian defense portion of the goal. Of the $25,000 sought, about $15,650 is for Marion city, the remainder for the seven rural communities and the territory near them. This distribution is on the basis of the apportionment of tax revenue.

Method of Spending

One-third of the city's share and one-third of the share of each of the rural communities will be placed into a countywide fund held for emergency use. Only two-thirds of the amount raised will become available for expenditure, and it can be spent only after the unit seeking supplies has submitted a requisition to the executive committee of the county civilian defense council. If the council approves the requisition, the supplies are ordered and provision made to pay the bill.

Civilian defense organizations are prepared to swing into action in any kind of emergency, but their training is centered on preparation to deal with war emergencies. Its primary job is to be ready to function effectively if any part of Marion county should be attacked, especially by a bombing attack. Civilian defense is not a fighting organization—its job is not to resist a possible enemy attack, but to direct the civilian population so that death, injury and property loss are kept at a minimum in the event of a disaster.

Proposed expenditures for civilian defense in Marion city already total $10,611.16, apportioned as follows: Volunteer headquarters office on North State street, $1,613.18; air raid wardens, $3,585; auxiliary police, $625; medical emergency service, $2,939.98; auxiliary firemen, $1,848.

Community Divisions

The county has been divided among the incorporated communities so that every township is covered by an organization centered in one of the communities. Marion city also serves Marion township. Each community serves its own corporation area plus the following additional rural districts:

LaRue—Montgomery township West precinct, Grand and Bowling Green townships.

Agosta—Montgomery East Precinct and Big Island township.

Green Camp—Green Camp township.

Prospect—Prospect and Pleasant townships.

Waldo—Waldo and Richland townships.

Caledonia—Claridon, Scott and Tully townships.

Morral—Salt Rock and Grand Prairie townships.

Many Large Fires Started in Bombing Raid; U. S. Takes Another Island.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 — An air attack on the Japanese camp at Kiska in the Aleutian islands started many large fires and destroyed three enemy seaplanes on the water, the navy reported today.

The raid was carried out Wednesday by army Liberator bombers, accompanied by twin engine lightning fighters, a communique said. "While the bombers rained incendiary bombs on the enemy camp, the fighters strafed and destroyed the Japanese seaplanes.

No enemy air opposition was encountered, but one of the army fighters was lost.

Island Occupied

The Alaska defense command disclosed earlier today that American troops had taken over another island in the Andreanof group of the Aleutians, in a "routine operation."

On October 11, the navy communique said, army long-range bombers dropped six tons of demolition bombs on the Kiska camp, but results were not observed. The raiders Wednesday saw three beached and two sunken ships at Kiska, the result of previous bombings.

Delaware Co. Man Buried in Hay Six Hours Rescued

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 16—Buried alive in hay for about six hours, Robert McNett, 27, was reported yesterday to be recovering at his home near here.

He had been working with his father, William McNett, Wednesday morning and left him at 10 a. m. to drive to Delaware where he was scheduled for a physical examination before the selective service medical board.

A search was started at noon when his father learned he had not been to the house and had not been in Delaware for his examination.

Four hours later McNett was found, wedged head downward against the siding, 15 feet below the top of the mow. He was unconscious. He was unable to give a coherent account of what happened, except that just before he was to leave for Delaware he had gone into the mow to pitch down some hay.

Members of the family had searched the mow several times before he was found, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Milligan.

18-19 DRAFT APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

Action Taken Shortly After Similar Measure Is Sent to House Floor.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The senate military committee recommended the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds today shortly after the house arranged for final action tomorrow on similar legislation.

Rumblings of displeasure arose on the house side of the capitol over a school deferment amendment in the bill before it and the lack of assurance of a full 12 months' training for the youthful selectees.

The objections were aired at a rules committee hearing on house procedure on the bill, which administration leaders said they expected would be passed swiftly, as one answer of a democracy to totalitarian threats.

The bill approved unanimously by the senate committee was sponsored by Senator Gurney (R-SD) who announced that the measure would go to the senate floor Monday. A $6,000,000,000 navy appropriation bill has the right of way, however, and Gurney said that a vote on the draft bill was unlikely before Tuesday.

Gurney's bill lowers the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 and provides that high school students may be deferred until the end of the last half of the academic year.

The legislation on which the house is to vote tomorrow, for which two hours of debate were allowed, also has provisions designed to prevent married men from being inducted ahead of single men.

Approved by Committee

As approved by the house committee, the legislation assured high school and college students of deferment long enough to complete their current academic year, provided it does not run beyond June 30, 1943, and revised the set-up under which local draft boards have been meeting monthly quotas intended to build the army to a strength of 7,500,000 by the end of next year.

The student deferment provision grants a delay only to students requesting it.

Of the estimated 2,500,000 additional men the legislation would make liable to the draft, the committee was told that some 1,000,000 would be cancelled out because of enlistments or rejections.

The great majority of the estimated 450,000 men to be inducted in December of this year, Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey had explained, would come from the teen-age group if the law were passed. The rest, he said, probably would be used up by April, at which time it would be necessary to call married men without children and single men with dependents.

To make certain that selective service boards carried out Hersheys' announced intention to draft no married men while single

SIGN LANGUAGE SAVES CREW OF U. S. BOMBER

By The Associated Press

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY AIR FORCE BOMBER COMMAND SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 16—An RAF fighter pilot who improvised an air sign language in a split second was credited today with saving a crippled American flying fortress and its crew which included an Ohioan.

The fortress, with Sgt. Thomas E. McMillan, 22, of Steubenville, O., aboard as waist gunner, was attacked by swarms of German fighters that knocked out two motors, smashed the radio apparatus, riddled the life raft and drilled shell holes in the rudder during the raid on Lille, France, last Friday.

The fortress fought off the Germans but was losing height rapidly and preparing for a crash landing in the English channel when the English pilot, Flight Lieut. A. J. Andrews, swung his plane in front of the fortress, wagged his wings violently and headed for English hills ahead.

"I knew he wanted me to follow him so I took a chance," said Lieut. James M. Stewart, 22, of Marrowbone, Ky., fortress pilot.

The Spitfire sped straight over a low hill, Stewart declared, and "just as he reached the crest of the hill he waggled his wings again and dropped his landing gear to show me there was a field below."

The American bomber barely cleared the hill and landed safely on a field the crew had not known was there.

HITLER REPORTED SHIFTING GENERALS

According to reports reaching Stockholm, Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has initiated a drastic "purge" of the German high command, dismissing a number of generals and demoting others who had shown dissatisfaction over his direction of the summer campaign in Russia. Hitler, the reports stated, has dismissed Gen. Franz Halder, chief of staff of the Nazi high command, replacing him with Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of operations in the high command. Both are artillery commanders. Halder is shown left, Jodl right, with Hitler.

SCRAP DRIVE ENDS SATURDAY

Final Appeal Made as Three-Week Marion Co. Campaign Nears End.

One more day to go and Marion county will have given its answer to the nationwide appeal for scrap to arm our men in service.

Whether it will be a proud answer remains to be seen when final reports are in.

Saturday is the LAST DAY to give scrap that will count in the county's report to the nation in the drive staged by the country's newspapers.

A final, urgent appeal came today to every man, woman and child in the city and rural areas to make one last effort to "get in the scrap."

Marion's three junkyards yesterday received 30 tons of scrap.

Students To Christen Ship

School boys and girls, who have done an outstanding job of service in the Marion county salvage drive, will be given an opportunity to name and christen a Liberty ship, the Maritime commission announced today.

Every pupil in the state may submit to the state director of education, Kenneth C. Ray names of distinguished Ohioans now dead. The names must reach his office by Oct. 31. Three names will be selected and sent to Washington for final selection by the commission.

According to advance instructions, each school must send a report of total poundage of all scrap materials collected between Oct. 5 and tomorrow. To enter the school in the contest to christen the Liberty ship, each school also must report on the number of pounds of scrap per pupil. The reports must be made by Nov. 1.

Method of Scoring

From the records of the schools throughout the state the three that have collected the largest amounts by weight per pupil will be named.

The principal or teacher of each of the schools will have the pupils select the boy or girls in the school who has been most helpful in the campaign. The three, accompanied by the principal or teacher of the winning school will be sent to christen the ship. Traveling expenses will be paid by the American Industries Salvage committee.

ENEMY GUNS OPEN FIRE ON U. S. POSITIONS

Large Concentration of Enemy Ships Found Northwest of Battle Scene.

By The Associated Press

The Japanese have landed large reinforcements with equipment, including artillery, on Guadalcanal island and are now shelling American positions on the island, the navy reported today in Washington.

A large concentration of enemy ships also has been discovered near Shortland island about 230 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, a navy communique said, in addition to the enemy naval units in the southeastern Solomon islands.

Presence of American motor torpedo boats in the Solomons area was disclosed in a report that enemy warships shelling American positions on Guadalcanal the night of October 14-15 were attacked by these torpedo boats, which reported a probable torpedo hit on a Japanese cruiser.

Planes Find Ships

During the morning of October 14, the navy said, searching planes sent out to scout the enemy strafed and damaged nine enemy planes on the beach at Rekata bay on Santa Isabel island, about 115 miles north of Guadalcanal.

The same afternoon, navy and marine corps dive bombers, escorted by fighters, left Guadalcanal to attack enemy transports approaching the island.

In two attacks on the Jap ships they scored "minor damage," but lost one fighter.

The communique did not say whether the enemy concentration in the Buin-Faisi area near Shortland island were transports or warships, but the implication appeared to be that it was composed of both, and that the enemy was preparing to reinforce still further the heavy detachments it has succeeded in placing ashore on Guadalcanal.

American and Japanese forces were locked in a series of deadly hide-and-seek battles on land, at sea and in the air in the lower Solomon islands, with the fate of perhaps the whole southwest Pacific hanging in the balance.

A powerful armada of Japanese battleships, cruisers and destroyers—the first capital ships risked by Japan in the struggle for the 600-mile-long archipelago—was reported maneuvering near Savo island, immediately north of Guadalcanal island, while Japanese bombers furiously attempted to knock out the key Guadalcanal air base.

The navy in Washington announced that 27 enemy bombers attacked the flying field within the last 24 hours, following up an earlier bombardment by Japanese naval guns.

But the invaders were paying a heavy toll in ships and lives, as indicated by a navy report that three enemy transports previously damaged by bombs had been beached by the Japanese and still were burning.

In addition, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that allied bombers had seriously damaged a Japanese light cruiser off the southern tip of Bougainville island.

Judge Interrupts Hearing To Order Gambling Arrest

By order of Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, a charge of a gambling operation was filed today by Police Chief William E. Marks against John Birch, operator of the Playhouse at 182 South Main street.

Judge Hazen ordered the arrest after Birch had admitted operating a card game in which chips were used to represent money during a municipal court hearing this morning of four Marion youths charged by Birch of disorderly conduct.

Found Not Guilty

The youths, Pete Bancos, 20, of 123 West Columbia street, Pete Armbruster, 18, of 163 Sharpless court, Howard Hedges, 20, of 125 Wallace street and Richard Hutt, 18, of 133 Dix avenue, were found not guilty by Judge Hazen. In announcing his decision, Judge Hazen said that he did not believe the evidence introduced by Birch and acting Prosecutor Robert Kelly was sufficient to convict the youths.

During a cross-examination of Birch it was brought out that poker and rum games for money had been played for at least three months. When Birch admitted that a "two-bit limit poker game" was played in the Playhouse, Paul D. Michel, attorney for the youths, made a motion that a bench warrant be made for Birch's arrest on charges of operating a gambling establishment and that the case against the four youths be dismissed.

Orders Arrest

Judge Hazen ordered Birch's arrest but overruled the defense's latter request. The court was adjourned at 10:45 while municipal court papers were drawn against Birch.

It was believed that the charge against Birch would be brought before the court after the recess. However, when court resumed 15 minutes later the case against the four boys was continued.

Later Birch pleaded not guilty to the gambling charge which alleges that he "did keep a room to be used or occupied for gambling and did knowingly permit it to

Both Sides Seek Knockout Blows in Solomons Area

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The struggle for control of the Southwest Pacific sea-showed in thunderous spurts around the Solomon Islands today as strengthened American and Japanese forces strove desperately for knockout blows.

Stepped-up aerial and naval action throughout the whole battle-inflamed area bolstered likelihood that a showdown was near at hand for possession of the pivotal Guadalcanal island, and its prized airbase captured more than two months ago by United States marines.

Within the last 24 hours, the navy reported last night, Japanese bombers have blasted at the flying field, following up an earlier bombardment from the sea by an enemy armada that included battleships, cruisers and destroyers.

Jap Fleet On Hand

Near Savo island, scene of recent Japanese and American naval battles at the approaches to the enemy-held northern portion of Guadalcanal, a strong Nipponese fleet was operating, the navy said.

A Japanese naval vessel, believed to be a submarine, also shelled Espiritu Santo island on the night of Oct. 14-15. The island, site of an American airbase, is 450 miles southeast of Guadalcanal.

While the struggle between reinforced Japanese and American troops developed on Guadalcanal, allied bombers continued a two-pronged offensive from United States airfields and Gen Douglas MacArthur's Australian headquarters.

Army Flying Fortresses splashed explosives on the airfield and shore installations at Buka, Japanese base about 375 nautical miles northwest of Guadalcanal, wrecking or damaging 10 enemy bombers and fighters.

Six more Japanese fighter planes were shot down at the enemy base at Buin on the southeast coast of Bougainville island, and two enemy cargo ships were damaged on Oct. 12.

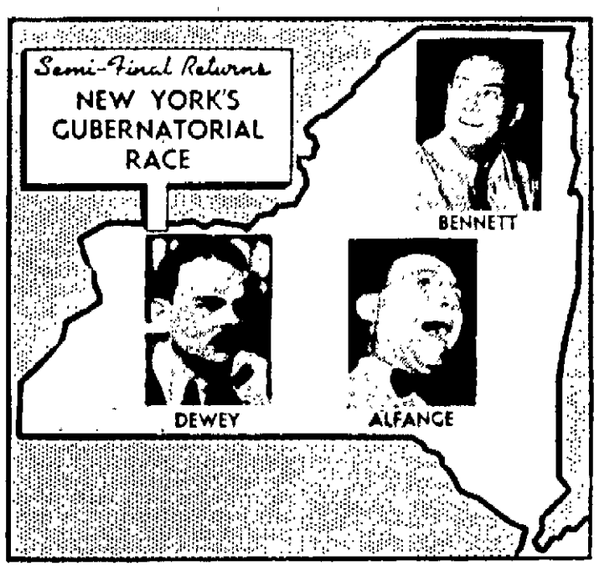
Bennett Shown Gaining In N. Y. Governor Race After Indorsement by Roosevelt



By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16—Since President Roosevelt's indorsement of him, John J. Bennett, Democratic candidate for governor, has gained 4 points in popularity throughout New York State.

How much of this is attributable solely to the President's indorsement, and how much is due to the Bennett campaign, is, of course, a matter that cannot be determined with any scientific exactness.

Compared to the Institute's earlier report on the campaign, Sept. 27, Thomas E. Dewey's percentage in the latest poll, completed this week, is down 2 points. The vote for Dean Alfange, American Labor Party candidate, has also declined 2 points since the September report.

Following is the way the situation stands today in the Institute's semi-final poll of New York State:

	Today	Sept. 27
Dewey	51%	53%
Bennett ...	41	37
Alfange ...	8	10

The vote for Israel Amter, Communist candidate, and other minor party candidates is less than one per cent.

City vs. Upstate

In comparison to 1938, when Dewey ran for governor against Herbert H. Lehman and was beaten by a very small margin, today's poll shows Dewey running slightly better in New York City and about the same as 1938 in the upstate counties.

The vote for the three principal candidates by city and upstate is as follows in the poll:

	N. Y. City	Upstate
Dewey ..	37%	61%
Bennett .	48	34
Alfange .	15	2

In 1938 the vote in the city was 35 per cent for Dewey, 65 per cent for Lehman. Upstate it was 63 per cent for Dewey, 37 per cent for Lehman.

Party Shifts

The Institute's Sept. 27 report showed that one principal source of Dewey's strength lay in the fact that a substantial number of 1940 Roosevelt voters said they were going to switch parties and vote for Dewey.

The latest poll shows that since President Roosevelt's endorsement of Bennett there has been some decline in the number of Roosevelt voters who say they will vote for the Republican candidate.

Whereas the total of this group was previously 33 per cent, today it has dropped to 28 per cent.

The division of the 1940 Roosevelt and Willkie voters is as follows on the governorship race:

	1940 Roosevelt Voters	1940 Willkie Voters
Dewey	28%	79%
Bennett	58	20
Alfange ...	14	1

Today's poll is a semi-final poll. Another complete survey now being undertaken by the Institute will measure the effect of the campaign as it develops in intensity. A final forecast will be made Nov. 2, the day before election.

INDUSTRIES REPORT FIGURES ON SALVAGE

797,298 Pounds Listed Here and at Mt. Gilead.

In September 797,298 pounds of salvage materials were collected by the Marion Bureau of Industrial Conservation, according to a report by the chairman, C. O. Brown.

Thirty-one plants in Marion and Mt. Gilead were contacted.

A break-down of the report follows:

Iron and steel, 782,627 pounds; copper, 9,256; brass, 1,782; paper, 3,280; rubber, 353.

The bureau has a 35 millimeter sound film, "Let's Get In the Scrap," available for club, lodge and group showings. The film, which shows why scrap is vitally necessary to the war effort, may be had by calling Louis E. Michel, secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce at 2277.

CADET FROM MARION IN AVIATION CLASS

Graduating Group Reviewed by President Roosevelt.

Aviation Cadet Roy F. Greene of 626 North Prospect street is among cadets at the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center, Tex., who this week completed pre-flight training and went on to primary flying schools throughout the Gulf Coast army air forces training center, according to a report from the public relations office.

They left the San Antonio center just a few days after passing in review before their commander in chief, President Roosevelt.

The huge class of future air crew combat pilots was the first to be so honored at the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center. The review was held before the President during his recent tour of army establishments.

The center consists of two main parts: a pre-flight school where future pilots are trained for flying schools and a classification section where aviation cadets are classified as pilots, navigators and bombardiers for air combat teams.

The class also included Cadets

Lochner Finds Southwest America 'Rarin' To Get at Nazis and Japs

[illegible] chief of Associated Press and [illegible] Bureau for many [illegible] the United [illegible] in other American [illegible] from internment [illegible] on a lecture [illegible] gives his impressions [illegible] American southwest.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

[illegible], Ariz., Oct 16. — [illegible]—The great southwest 'rarin' to get at Hitler as many a citizen assured me. There [illegible] about the war con- [illegible] this part of the United [illegible] you look, there are [illegible]. Above your head is [illegible] the purr of motors. Phoenix I encountered American airforce trainees but also young English lads, even Chinese. The explanations for speeding up the sales the year round appearance are ideal, and our allies are taking advantage of them no less than our own armed forces.

A fine look to 'em they are, these young men who are soon to go against Japanese Zeros and German Junkers and Messerschmitts. Start a conversation with them and anywhere that you may have seen something of Europe and especially of Nazi-land, and they never stop asking 'intelligent' questions.

One Makes Suggestion

"There is no denying with that we instructors have," one young man observed, "than that some of our American fliers who have had actual combat experience be brought back to America for short hauls to tell us about actual fighting. After all I have had no combat experience. So can merely teach men to fly, but I can't possibly teach them how to fight, except theoretically. It would be grand to have some of the boys back occasionally who have faced the Hitler airforce."

"It seems to me that you men of the press can give the American public adequate graphic accounts of what these gallant flyers are doing and that a better purpose would be served by letting these returning, successful men share their experiences with us."

Among the civilians I found a general desire to help. But the people want concrete direction from headquarters. "If these politicians in Washington were only to stop playing politics and put through the measures now that we know must come inevitably, instead of waiting until after the elections, we'd be just that much ahead on our way to victory," one of my hosts said, with conviction.

He is not alone. I have heard more cussing of politicians on this trip than I ever thought could be crowded into such a venture. The people want to win the war, not to play politics.

The metal scrap collections are welcomed in these parts as something tangible to do for the nation's defense.

Many War Industries.

There are also numerous war industries in this section of America. Everybody seems to hold some job or other in a war plant. There's one danger connected with it, however: the farms are becoming deserted and the crops are idle.

Cotton picking, for instance, has become so much of a problem that some Texas localities are providing free transportation for volunteers willing to spend a day in the cotton fields.

I am reminded of the time back in 1936 and 1937, when everybody in Germany was urged to volunteer for work in building the Siegfried line, Germany's western defense system. I discovered that even top-hatted diplomats in the Wilhelmstrasse were pressed, and when I inquired into the whereabouts, I'd be told they were shoveling dirt somewhere along the western frontier.

The cotton situation—as well as the farm situation generally—seems to me like a challenge to America to be no less energetic about bringing in our harvest and tilling our soil than our enemies were at building their fortifications.

64 NEW MEMBERS CERTAIN IN HOUSE

Resignations, Defeats and Vacancies Bring New Faces.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 16—The house of representatives in the new congress starting in January is certain to have at least 64 new faces without waiting for the Nov 3 election returns.

With the congressional primary run-offs in Louisiana completed, an Associated Press survey today showed that this was bound to occur because of incumbent members were not candidates for re-election, 22 were defeated in the primaries and seven vacant seats are to be filled in next month's balloting.

In addition, one member has died and three others have resigned to enter the armed forces since their renomination and new nominees have been named.

The survey also disclosed that 100 of the 432 members to be elected Nov. 3 (Maine reelected its three Republicans Sept 14) have no opposition. This group includes 89 Democrats in 14 states, 10 Republicans in five, and one American-Labor (Marcantonio, New York).

Four other Democratic nominees—in Georgia and Virginia—are virtually certain of election because of only minor party opposition. Eighteen more Democratic candidates in the solid south have Republican opponents.

A total of 375 house incumbents won renomination in the primaries, including 222 Democrats, 149 Republicans, three Progressives and one American Labor.

MIGHTY SMASH TO LICK HITLER

Lochner Declares Hard Blow Will Put Germany Out of War.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct 16—Adolf Hitler has plenty of headaches and bottlenecks, but only a mighty military smash by the United Nations is likely to put Germany out of the war, in the opinion of Louis P. Lochner, who was chief of the German bureau of the Associated Press until the declaration of war.

Addressing the American Society for Metals here last night Lochner observed:

"After traveling around the country, and going through the great Boeing factory at Seattle and seeing our airmen at work, I believe we are getting in stride for that blow. There is a tremendous effort in this country and I only wish it went as far as some of the people are in Washington."

Loses Psychic Sense

Women Making Name for Themselves in California Airplane Factories

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Wide World Military Editor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16—A few weeks in this bustling war industry area and you decide that, if woman's place still is in the home, she certainly isn't spending much time there these days.

At more and more corner filling stations you find signs reading "Victory Girls on Duty" and then see two or three grimuing gals in coveralls clambering all over a grease job.

On street cars you see young women and older ones, in shirts and slacks, wearing the identification buttons of plane plants or other war factories.

In Los Angeles the nerve center of the army air forces' air raid warning system is staffed almost entirely by women, almost all of them volunteers.

Most of all, of course, you notice women in the aircraft plants, where they are spreading out into every department. Once, when they were an experiment, the women were used only on light, delicate jobs—assembling small parts, doing intricate wiring. Now you'll find them handling rivet guns, wearing welders' marks, using paint sprays, and even helping to operate huge hydraulic presses.

Vultee, which proudly proclaims that 15 of its original 20 women plant workers still are on the job (the other five left to get married), offers a good example of the type of woman who goes into war work—or, rather, offers thorough proof that you can't type the woman who goes into war work.

One of the first to start with them was Mrs. Blanche Patton, an aluminum welder who is working her way through her second war. She learned the profession in her teens, during the first World war, when among other things she welded a battle plane crow's nest, stuck at it for 11 years; is qualified to work cast iron and steel as well as aluminum, which not all men can say, and went back to her trade in time to be one of the first women welder to be employed by a U. S. aircraft manufacturer.

She rates as an A-1 journeyman welder. No man or machine has topped her average at putting together the aluminum oil tanks which go into the basic trainers which Vultee makes.

An entirely different type is Dorothy Sellers. Originally from Appleton, Wis., she came to California four years ago after dancing in style shows in Chicago. She worked part time as a car hop, cosmetics demonstrator in a shop on Hollywood boulevard, night-club entertainer in San Francisco, and showgirl in Billy Rose's aquacade there before coming to Vultee.

For the most part women are being used now in jobs that will release men for work requiring greater mechanical skill. But the women are moving up, too, as the aircraft manufacturers look ahead to the day when the manpower well runs dry.

FISH DISTURBS BATH

By The United Press

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Mrs. Elsie Joseph screamed, leaped from her bathtub and sprinted to the protecting arms of her husband when she found a small fish enjoying its bath with her. The water department opined that the fish could well have entered the tub via the faucet.

STEEL WAREHOUSES IN IMPORTANT ROLE

Help Distribute Output of Mills to Customers.

(Wide World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Far less publicized than the steel mills whose roaring furnaces supply the rich color of war production, are the steel warehouses that keep pumping materials into factories.

Essentially, the warehouses are like wholesale grocers who deal with the little fellows. There are probably 500 warehouses scattered around the country.

They fill orders quickly and in comparatively small doses whereas the mills, in mass production, cannot deal in driblets.

The mills produce the steel which they sell directly to the large consumers—such as shipmakers—or to the warehouses which they sell directly to the tot in a few pounds here or tons there.

Here is an extreme example of how a warehouse can fill an order which a steel mill could not touch since it is geared on a gigantic scale:

A Cleveland father, annoyed by his small daughter's habit of sucking her thumb, decided that if he could make a stainless steel cap to fit over the finger she would quickly lose interest in it.

He went to the warehouse which sold him the minute piece of steel and trimmed it to his specifications. He went home then, fashioned it at his work bench, put it on the child's thumb. She let the finger alone thereafter.

Last year the mills of the country turned out 62,484,000 tons of finished steel products. Of that total 9,200,000 tons—or 14.7 of the total output—went to the warehouses.

This year, because of the terrific war demands on the mills, the warehouses probably are receiving less finished steel than in 1941.

The warehouses fill thousands of individual orders for bits and pieces.

Operating under priorities, they fill orders which have an AIA rating or better. They are allowed to sell a certain percentage of steel for repairs and maintenance.

Additional Rationing Programs Planned

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Growing scarcities in more commodities hastened development today of preparations for additional rationing programs and an expansion of the office of price administration to take care of them.

OPA officials said the expansion would establish district offices in 90 cities of 100,000 population and add about 25 district offices in cities of 75,000 or more persons.

The officials who would not be quoted by name said scarcities developing in more commodities necessitate additional rationing programs as rapidly as local boards can absorb them.

A Promise for Tomorrow

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Strange Night

THE next few hours were the strangest Julie had ever experienced. Dawn, playing hostess, invited them to find the kitchen and finish plans for the morning's fishing trip.

"I haven't the faintest idea what we'll find to eat," she chattered as they trailed after her down the long hall to the lean-to kitchen at the back. "Dad usually keeps some canned goods on hand and Arnaldo—Arnold—brought some fruit."

Julie pretended not to notice the correction, answered smoothly. "Looks as if we wouldn't starve," and smiling, pointed to the well-stocked shelves in the dark pantry. There was quite enough to last several people weeks.

And plenty of signs that the kitchen had been used frequently and recently. Someone, Julie decided as she perched on the scarred kitchen table, munched a sandwich, had been living here for some time. And more than one person.

All the rest of the afternoon as they wandered around the deserted grounds, Julie tried to put the puzzle together. Dawn and Arnold never left them for a moment. Kelland never appeared.

Dawn, growing steadily more worn, more drawn under the strain, chattered incessantly, laughed almost hysterically. Plans for the morning's fishing trip were laid carefully. The three men would leave shortly before daylight. It was to be Pete's special assignment to get Kelland aside long enough to have a talk with him, try to persuade him to reasonableness.

"Daddy admires you so, Pete," Dawn said as she bid them goodnight. "He'll listen to you."

"Maybe. I'll do my best, anyway," Pete promised, patted her shoulder with clumsy tenderness.

What must Pete think of all this, Julie wondered. He'd been in love with Dawn himself. Perhaps he still was. It must be hurting terribly.

Julie was to have a front bedroom.

"You're right across from me, darling," Dawn said, leading the way upstairs. "Nothing is very fancy—but you'll be comfortable."

Kelland, Julie decided must be in a third bedroom at the end of the hall. Pete was to share the fourth, and last, room with Arnold. That was Dawn's—or Arnold's—plan, anyway. Pete upset it carelessly.

"Thanks, anyway. But I wouldn't think of disturbing you. Got my sleeping bag in the car and I'd much prefer stretching it under a tree, if you don't mind."

Visitor

Arnold did mind, pretty obviously, but there was nothing much he could do save offer to drive Pete back to the highway.

Julie heard them go with strange misgiving. Nothing could happen to Pete, of course. The man wouldn't murder him in cold blood. She tried to laugh at herself. Still she was glad when, a few minutes later, she heard two cars return, heard Pete's voice.

Slipping into the nightie Dawn had loaned her, Julie blew out the smoky kerosene lamp, tried to open the windows. Only one gave reluctantly under her pushing. The other two held fast. Their locks, she discovered, nailed shut. Funny.

She slipped into the creaking bed, grateful for the chance to relax and think a way through the tangled maze of the day's happenings. But the thinking didn't last long. Her exhausted young body demanded—and got, sleep.

How long she'd been asleep she didn't know. But something wakened her. She sat bolt upright, her heart pounding, unable to think for the moment where she was or what had happened. Another sound. And she realized that there was someone in her room.

"Don't be alarmed, Julie. It's Dawn!"—a faint whisper, from a ghost-white figure moving gropingly across the room toward the bed.

"Heavens, you startled me!" Julie let go her breath.

"Sh! They'll hear us." Dawn fumbled for the edge of the blankets. "Let me in. I must talk to you."

Her words scarcely out, Dawn slipped quickly into the bed beside Julie, lay trembling violently although the night was warm.

Julie's arm went around her instantly. "What's the matter, Dawn?"

"You must get out of here. Quick. Get Pete to go too. You are both in danger."

Julie tensed. "But of course! Why, Dawn?"

"I can't explain. Just go. Now. Tomorrow will be too late."

"Why can't you explain?"

Dawn shook her head. Against her cheek, Julie felt tears, felt Dawn's tiny form convulse with sobbing.

When she could control her self again, Dawn whispered. "Pete won't come back alive from that fishing trip. Now—please. Go while you still have time."

Held In A Vise

Julie shook her head. "Not until you tell me what this is all about."

"I can't Julie. I can't. Just be terribly careful. He has spies everywhere. If you get to your car, drive fast. Take the left fork after the bridge, double back along the river. He won't know the roads well enough to follow you if you get any head start at all."

"Why should he want to follow us?"

"He knows you suspect something he can't afford to let you go."

Julie took a plunge in the dark. "Arnold is an enemy agent, isn't he, Dawn?"

The girl stiffened, lay perfectly quiet. "How did you know?"

"And this isn't an elopement, is it? You despise him. You think he has some hold on you Dawn. Don't you?"

No response save a dry sob.

"You know that he is responsible for that awful forest fire that cost you most of the good timber on your place. You know that the fire served as a beacon for a submarine. That an American tanker and 12 seamen went down because of it?"

Julie waited. After a moment, a faint, "Yes—I know."

"All right. Tell me all about it."

The story came piecemeal, disconnected, almost incoherent at times. But Julie managed to put it together until the whole picture came gradually into focus.

"His name is really Arnaldo de Monteforde," Dawn said. "I met him in Cannes the first year I was abroad. I thought he was a marquis. That I would be a marchesa. So I married him."

Julie nodded, waited for her to go on. "He had no title. He belonged to some political party. Always schemes — intrigues. I hated him. He only wanted me for a blind."

Footsteps sounded somewhere at the back of the house. The door from the kitchen slammed shut. A man came heavily up the stairs.

"Oh, Julie! It annoys me out of my mind! It will be too late then."

Julie felt her own heart stop as the footsteps approached the door, slowed, stopped, and then went on.

Minutes later, Dawn whispered. "I hate him. I despise him. I am afraid of him, Julie."

"But why? He has no right to—"

Dawn shook her head. "He has our child."

"Oh!" Julie gasped.

"A little girl. When I left Italy, I thought my plan was perfect, that I could trust the servant who was to bring Elta to me. Arnaldo found out about it. Elta's safety is the sword he hangs over my head."

"THE BOY WHO'S BOUND TO BAG A BOMBER..."

That boy in khaki whom you'll find sharing your car the next time you ride the Erie may not be just another soldier... he may be a boy from OUR TOWN. And who knows but that he's destined to blast a Nazi bomber out of the skies?

Erie is carrying many people like him these days.....soldiers, sailors, marines, and war workers by the carload.

Naturally, it's our job to see that they are transported safely to their destinations. In doing this we can't always give you who must travel, too, all the comforts to which you've become accustomed but we're sure you know we're doing everything we can.

You can help by making reservations early, by planning your trip in between week-ends, and by accepting space available instead of waiting for preferred accommodations.

Navy in Being

IN MAKING its announcements, the navy department is up against a tremendous lack of knowledge about the general theory of marine warfare. Its attempts to overcome the deficit with explanatory remarks are probably none too successful.

For instance, there is little or no appreciation of the fact that a ship in some situations becomes almost as expendible as the ammunition in its lockers. It may be sunk in a few minutes, as were the cruisers in the Solomons, but if it accomplishes its mission in those minutes its loss is justified. The public, for the most part, is solidly committed to the theory of a navy in being—a navy that accomplishes its purpose by being a potential, rather than an actual, striking force.

This conception was fostered largely by the pattern of naval strategy in World war I when the German fleet withdrew after the battle of Jutland and thereafter was seen no more. Aside from anti-submarine warfare and operations against 'raiders,' Allied naval influence in that war was exerted by a display of potentialities, rather than direct combat. It was a war of naval maneuvering.

Airplanes have made successful maneuvering virtually impossible. In this war, ships are being expended without benefit of finesse. In the engagement that resulted in the quick loss of three United States cruisers by Japanese naval gunnery, airplanes illuminated the targets and destruction followed immediately—one more item of proof that aviation has changed the whole theory of naval warfare.

One Part Idealism, 10 Parts Politics

HOUSE approval of a measure outlawing the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting represents one part idealism to 10 parts politics, but that one part of idealism nevertheless is vital.

To the extent that idealism is served by politics in such an issue, the politics can be justified. Thus, if Republican plans for winning a larger part of the Negro vote in northern states and union strategy for signing up Negro members could abolish poll taxes in the eight southern states that retain them as a device for disenfranchising Negro voters, the game would be worth the candle. Even if they only keep the issue alive, they can be justified.

The game, of course, is to lift the Negro out of the circumstances of slavery. It has been a long, hard battle and it hasn't been won yet. But there has been consistent, if slow, progress. Florida and North Carolina have abolished poll taxes. Tennessee may repeal them next year. The senate, where southern prejudice against the Negro is still firmly entrenched, is expected to bury the current anti-poll tax bill, or filibuster it to death, but the fight is worth waging. If it were to stop, the United States would have sacrificed one of its priceless principles to intolerance.

Make Room for Everybody

THE NEWS that the United Nations is compiling a blacklist of guilty parties to be dealt with appropriately after the war should be a deterrent to violence against Axis victims. While the blacklist itself is not mentioned in the White House announcement of a post-war commission to investigate war crimes, it is the vital detail of the plan. The cut-throats have been given something to lose.

Obviously the list should include the names of all politicians in the parties that plunged their countries into war, all the traitors in the conquered countries, all saboteurs and fifth columnists, all personnel of the secret police and all military personnel down to the level of non-commissioned officers. It also should include the names of every person known to have committed an act of brutality against helpless persons and at the very least should be supplemented with the names of all those who have given anything more than nominal lip service to the doctrine of violence that precipitated the war. That would include millions.

It should not be confined, though that seems to be the intent of the plan announced from the White House, to a handful of major criminals like Adolf Hitler, Benito Mussolini, the Norwegian Quisling, and a few hundred underlings. Until the fact of the people's broad responsibility for the crimes of their leaders has been better established than it is now, there will continue to be a new war every time new leaders can raise up a new generation of militant stooges.

With the Paragraphers

HARD TO FIGURE OUT.

When the gasoline transportation crisis first showed up in the eastern states, pipe lines from the mid-continental oil fields were suggested, but the steel priorities officials turned the suggestion down. In view of that fact, then we don't suppose there's any use suggesting a pipe line made of rubber.—Kansas City Times.

News Behind the News

Jeffers Starts Rubber Job with Definite Ability To Say No.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—"Whose bread I eat, his song I sing," is a maxim of political life often cited by South Carolina's Senator Smith.

He cited it last at Rubber Controller William Jeffers for sticking to recommendations that rayon be used in tires instead of cotton.

Mr. Jeffers flamingly rejected the herb and defied the cotton bloc in a straightforward manner which shook the wisdom teeth of Washington.

No official has ever talked to congress that way and gotten away with it—but I think Mr. Jeffers will.

His defiance of this most formidable political pressure was apparently no bravado for publicity effect, but a working formula, which he is putting into operation.

Representatives of the bus and truck men of the nation came in to see him shortly after his set-to with the cotton senators. They did not like this 35-mile speed limit he had fixed for them.

It would require them to use many more buses, they said, to handle the traffic, and they wanted to be allowed a special dispensation of 40 miles (they usually go 60 around this part of the country anyway).

Now Mr. Jeffers is an old bus man himself in a way. As head of the Union Pacific he operated fleets of busses as well as trains.

The operator's visit to him had been preceded by a long distance telephone call from the head of the Union Pacific bus line, a friend and associate in his old business.

This is the usual way of getting regulations changed in Washington, and this time the request had firmer ground beneath it than usual, because transportation Coordinator Eastman already had favored an increased speed for buses and trucks as a war-transportation measure.

Able to Say No

Mr. Jeffers shocked his old friend and his bus and truck callers by saying no. He told them his working formula was the Baruch report, which said nothing about special speed consideration for anyone, even for a good cause.

If their request was reasonable, as it seemed, they should go to the Baruch committee and get a recommendation for it. They all filed off in that direction, and no doubt will get what they seek.

The song Mr. Jeffers will sing apparently is going to be that of the Baruch committee, promising tires and fair administration of the muddled gas and rubber problem, and no others.

There is going to be more bread in that kind of singing from now on, than there has been in the old smooth formula of bowing to pressure of blocs or old business friends. That kind of politics may prove to be the best kind of politics hereafter.

Italy

Italy has practically passed out of the war news, but do not underestimate its strategic importance. Mr. Biddle, the attorney general, did not, in his Columbus Day speech freeing 600,000 Italians in this country from the stigma and restraints imposed on enemy aliens. The Biddle move was no doubt directed by Mr. Roosevelt and reflected careful diplomacy.

Latest line on conditions in Italy is furnished by Lt. Col. Michael Buckley, Field Artillery, USA, in a report on his experiences as a captive in that country before exchange on the Drottningholm (published in the current Artillery Journal).

Buckley found the private Italian soldier around prison camps with frayed uniforms, unshaven, inefficient and almost uninterested, waiting for the end of the war. Officers were generally well clothed in uniform and morale, but food everywhere was inadequate.

One officer intimated to Buckley that Italy would not be able to last another winter (meaning this one coming on).

Second Front Talk

Guessing as to when and where our offensive will strike in Europe has been whetted by the experience of Dieppe, where a heavy commando raid cost 50 per cent casualties. Some authorities are suggesting a frontal assault on the continent would cost a quarter million men.

If I knew anything about what is planned, I would not write it or hint it. As I do not, I feel free, as an uninformed civilian commentator, to point to a softly guarded front and side door of Europe again.

If we could marshal the naval and air (particularly the air) strength to blast our way on past Gibralta by sea, and up from Africa by air, and take the slippery Rommel from the rear, he could be annihilated.

The south Mediterranian coast could then be used as a basis for invasion up through Italy, where our troops might find a better welcome than the Germans ever found.

Daring Venture

It would be a daring venture, requiring months of concentrated organization, but it seems to me, as a student of war tactics, to offer a better chance of success than a costly frontal assault upon the German defenses on the continent.

A side door, up north in Norway, is also weakly defended. Both there and in Africa, we would be fighting Nazis at points

Want to Enlist?

Some Advantages of Volunteering for Service Listed.

Why enlist and when. In a series of three articles, Jack Stinnett, Washington writer, considers the two important questions which every able civilian between 18 and 45 must be turning over in his mind today.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 — So you want to enlist.

Well, Mister, don't put it off too long. Voluntary enlistments may be closed any day. As the manpower problem becomes more acute, need for absolute control of channeling manpower into the armed forces and production will force the powers that be to disregard a man's likes and dislikes and put him where they think he is most needed.

Even if that time should never come, Johnny-come-easies are skimming the cream off some branches of the services. Today a lawyer, for example, has as much or more chance of being an army chef as he has of practicing law.

The judge advocate general's department is crammed to the doors and the waiting lists look like about half the Who's Who of the nation's legal profession.

WHY enlist in the armed forces rather than wait to be drafted?

There are three good reasons: (1) By enlisting you can pick your service (all selectees go to the army); you can, to some extent, speed your way into the job for which you are best fitted and hence to quicker advancement in pay and rating; and you may even land a commission forthwith.

(2) You can get the jump of many months on those who are sitting back, waiting for the call.

(3) You can always have the personal satisfaction of having answered the country's call before that call became a command. This is something few enlisted men would willingly part with.

FROM the time they started to build this army the war department has recognized the vital importance of getting the right men for the right jobs.

There's the story about the lawyer who couldn't get into the adjutant general's department but is walking up the military ladder today because his hobby was building electric trains. He's a technical sergeant in charge of instrument repairs at one of the major air bases.

A grocery clerk is now a second lieutenant in the coast artillery because he once did a hitch in the navy where he was a gunner. A bank teller who was a cook in a CCC camp is now mess sergeant on the Alaskan highway. A Ph.D. is one of the Signal Corps' ace photographers because he relaxed from his studies by puttering around with a miniature camera.

There isn't one of these men who wouldn't have been where he is or farther if he had realized his talents were valuable and jumped into the fracas before he was called.

Daily Bible Thought

If men were in harmony with God he could accomplish in a day what it takes him a thousand years to accomplish if men do not cooperate: "But forget not this one thing, beloved, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."—2 Peter 3:8.

THE WINNING NUMBERS

America Still Has Friends In Japan

From an Article by Harry Paxton Howard in Commonwealth.

THE late President Theodore Roosevelt and the press of his day used to shout from the housetops that Japan was the one great "liberal," "progressive," "modern" country of Asia. Our financiers supplied funds for Japan's war against Russia and invasion of Korea and Manchuria, and President Roosevelt himself acted as secret attorney for Japan to induce Russia to send peace delegates to Portsmouth — where shrewd Japanese diplomacy aided by Roosevelt gained a most amazing diplomatic victory.

Those days are over, and the present Roosevelt administration and the press under its influence shout from the housetops that the "Japs" are "naturally" feudal and militaristic "savage yellow bellies," utterly incapable of liberal and progressive ideas. Both pictures contain falsehood. There are liberal and progressive Japanese, and there are militaristic and feudal minded Japanese. There are Japanese who love peace and there are Japanese who start wars. In a word, the Japanese are remarkably like most other peoples.

The present military dictatorship in Japan is essentially similar to the dictatorships of other "brutalization' powers, in that it rebelled against and overthrew a weak parliamentary regime. From July, 1929, the Japanese government was in the hands of the Hamaguchi cabinet—a representative civilian government based upon the Minseito, strongest party in parliament. Not only was Premier Hamaguchi a civilian, but the leader of the opposition was also a civilian. For Japan, so long under the domination of feudal militarists and their imperial figure-head, it was a truly remarkable situation.

The Japanese people at last were attaining to political power. This power was by no means complete, and was precarious and insecure, but there was definitely a government in office able to speak for the Japanese people far more responsibly than any Japanese government before or since.

WITH the power and prestige of the Japanese militarists and professional patriots steadily declining and evidently doomed, they turned to the actual creation of "incidents" in Manchuria and Korea. The Japanese army was still a virtually independent corporation, dependent on parliament for funds but with its own feudal organization intact, and was able to carry on its poisonous propaganda and to organize its murderous "incidents" with no effective interference.

One thing would have saved parliamentary government and completely discredited the militarists. The powers could have spoken firmly and decisively, telling the militarists to withdraw. The powers did not do so. Since 1932 every Japanese government has been headed either by a militarist or by a bureaucrat or aristocrat approved by the militarists. For a time, responsible civilians were "invited," but most of these were assassinated as soon as they began to disagree with the more murderous and aggressive of the militarists. In 1936, indeed, the militarists tried to exterminate all the remaining influential civilians in the bureaucracy itself, and by their bloody "purge" became the absolute masters of Japan—an absolutism only slightly less complete than the Japanese army's military dictatorship in Manchuria.

Though thousands of Japanese are now in prison on political and "anti-war" charges, and hundreds have been quietly done away with, there is no doubt that most ordinary Japanese are obeying their government in this war. In this they are acting no differently from patriotic subjects of other governments. They believe their "country is in danger," they get little except government-colored "news," they feel that everyone must do his duty in this hour of "national crisis," in this "war for survival." They hate and detest their military masters (many Japanese officers actually fear their own soldiers, and avoid them completely when off duty), but will obey them as against a foreign enemy. And in their obedience, and their intense sense of national loyalty, they are most curiously similar to the ideal held up to other peoples by other governments elsewhere.

IS there any possibility of our utilizing the feeling of these people against their own militarists, in a situation such as the present? There is. Their troops are spread out over enormous areas, where they can be reached by radio or personal propaganda—if we have any propaganda which will impress them, and will show them a way out of a terrible impasse. For they see their country and themselves bled white, but they see no way out except carrying through the war to a successful conclusion against the powers which they are told have "forced this war upon them."

What, then, can we say to the Japanese people, if we are to utilize their own hostility to their militarists, and their own desire for a freer and fuller life, in the cause of the freedom-loving peoples of the entire world? First of all, we must clearly and specifically renounce any intention of a military occupation of Japan, or establishment of any American military governor at Tokyo. We must state specifically our willingness to relinquish all our special privileges and a treaty with China, on a basis of equality, to come into effect as soon as the Japanese have adopted a similar policy. We must state specifically our desire to deal with a responsible parliamentary government in Japan, chosen in free elections based upon the suffrage act of 1925, our willingness to regard such a government as the supreme and sovereign authority, with military establishments reduced to the minimum by international agreements between civilian governments — excluding army and navy men and munitions makers.

WE must, furthermore, specifically renounce intention to restrict Japanese trade within barriers set up by our own privileged industrialists, any intention of interfering with purely economic relations between Japan and China, any intention of maintaining peace-time control of China's currency and currency system, any intention of monopolizing Chinese air lines in opposition to Japanese air lines. We must give the Japanese people a chance to live by peaceful industry and commerce, and not force them into the insane militarist alternative. We must establish a new and genuine League of Nations, this time based upon racial equality and the end of imperialism and empire, this time based upon a determination to make it work, this time controlling directly the armaments production of the world and specifically limiting its use, this time assuring the Japanese and every other people the possibility of living in peace and security, however powerful, numerous or wealthy their next-door neighbors.

Every one of these things was aimed at and striven for by the parliamentary government of Japan, 12 short years ago.

"We should be thankful for the things we never had, which we don't have to go without now on account of the war!"

Cheater Wearer

By DAMON RUNYON

You See Lots of Them in Our Army. Though in Navy Blinkers Are Rare as Can Be.

IT IS SAID the percentage of spectacle wearers is higher among our armed forces of today than in any army in our military history. This is because the authorities are not as squiffy about eyesight as they were in former times. If a man's vision with glasses is all right, they do not care if he is handicapped to some extent without them, which seems a reasonable idea.

Of course, if a man can not see a dollar on the sidewalk without glasses, the chances are his vision is so badly impaired that he would be useless as a military prospect. But just a case of near-sightedness is no bar because that is easily corrected with specs. In every camp nowadays you see scores of men wearing cheaters, which were something of a rarity in the last war, except among the officers.

A great many men appear before the examiners with impaired vision that they have not realized until put to the tests. This ignorance is nothing unusual. Probably 45 per cent of our population need glasses but do not wear them. Most of them should be wearing them all the time, especially the ladies. If a prospective soldier is otherwise physically sound, the examiners fit glasses to him and send him right on to the service—that is, of course, if the defect in vision is repaired by the glasses, as in most cases it is.

THUS THE optometrists have salvaged a great amount of soldier material that in our former wars would have been promptly discarded and forgotten. In the old days a man wearing glasses was deemed practically a cripple as far as military purposes were concerned. It was very difficult for a man with defective vision to get past the examiners in the last war and even so that the army doctors would not take a second look at a fellow who had trouble making out the letters on the test charts. If a man came around wearing glasses he was a dead fish before he got through the door.

Now I understand they even give a soldier requiring glasses a set of spares in case of accident and even his gas mask is equipped with the lenses necessary to his vision. Since there is no charge for the examination or for the glasses many a guy will come out of the army better with respect to his eyesight than when he went in. I am also informed that in the field the army has mobile offices for the optometrists so they can follow the boys around looking after their vision.

OUR ARMY is one of the last to recognize that many aspects of faulty vision can be sufficiently corrected by glasses to make a man of military value. However, that is probably because in our other wars we never required as many men as now and could approximate perfection in those selected. The German soldiers have always been great eyeglass wearers, and the Japs are noted for their specs.

I do not recall ever seeing an American soldier wearing blinkers. I suppose some of them do, but I never happened to run into one.

Armchair Generals

By SPOON RIVER SAM
Wide World Features

I tell you our armchair strategists don't get the credit they ought to. To me, it's perfectly plain they've got the best idea how to win this war.

Generals and admirals just naturally get confused. They're in the thick of things, and trees get in the way of the forest. They worry strategy so all fired hard, their judgment gets tangled up.

Now on the home front it's different. The civilian ain't tied to the monotony of figuring out strategy. So, when he goes at it, it's relaxation. All he has to think about aforehand is rationing, registering for same, taxes, cost of living, civilian defense, buying war bonds, paying debts, saving tin cans, saving rubber, saving scrap, listening to the radio and reading papers.

Naturally, when he turns his mind to battlefront, he's eager for adventure. The move to make is plain to him. When he lets in on it, you wonder why the military man who's trained for the job—hasn't done it.

The campaigner back home declares we open up a second front in France, bomb Tokyo every day, sweep in from Italy to meet the forces in France, send another AEF to Russia, bomb the Nazi lines from a spot in the middle east, and so on. There's nothing to it, you see.

Now what we need is some way for the generals and admirals to set up a direct line with these people at home so's they'll know what to do next. The war might depend on it. Yes, every expert's armchair ought to be wired for sound.

Baltimore Acts Early

(From the Engineering News-Record)

With almost 500 public air-raid shelters ready for occupancy, Baltimore, Md., believes it is far ahead of any other city in providing facilities for civilian defense, according to J. Clarke, city buildings engineer.

Located in basements of public and private buildings—more than 4,000 of which were surveyed before selections were made—the shelters provide some 950,000 square feet of space. The average shelter has a floor area of 1,900 square feet. Based on the need per person of 10 square feet for lying down and four square feet for standing, the total area would accommodate 95,000 people overnight or 237,000 for a short period.

To fit the basements for shelter use, outside windows are sandbagged and minor alterations have been made on the interiors for safe entrance and exit.

Path to Victory

As Russia goes into another phase of her war for defense, the second front, the real second front in the United Nations, and particularly in the United States, is going to be a front of morale, a front of civilian courage. We must stand and watch some terrible things. We must brace our nerves as we watch. If we can show our courage while our wheels turn, while our boys in training fields—hay-foot, straw-foot—and while our fledgling birdmen, zooming in the air, moult their pinefeathers and their wings—if we can do all these things with stout hearts we shall win the war.—William Allen White in Emporia Gazette.

CIRCLE MEETING HELD

Story of Rebekah Is Evangelist's Theme

The marriage of Rebekah and Isaac was the great romance of the Old Testament and Rebekah's willingness to leave everything she held dear and join her husband is an example for Christians to follow, Rev. Harry Fagan, blind musician and evangelist from Shelby, O., said in a sermon last night at the Marion Gospel Center.

He preached on "Willing Rebekah." Tonight at 6 he will preach on "Christ Returneth" and preach on "Christ Returneth" and story of his life.

be so used and occupied."

He was released under $100 to appear later.

Prosecution Witnesses

Three witnesses for the prosecution were introduced.

Forest Muladore, operator of the Home cafe at 176 South Main street was the first. He testified that on Oct. 12, Birch came into his restaurant to use the telephone to summon police. Four or five youths trailed Birch to the restaurant and yelled at Birch from the outside. The witness was unable to identify the four youths on trial as the ones. He said he only saw the foreheads of the youths.

Howard Jones, an employe at the Playhouse, testified the youths spent considerable time in the establishment. He said that on the day of the disorder two of them came in and asked to buy some chips from him. He told them that they would have to see the proprietor, Mr. Birch. One replied that he wouldn't go to that trouble just to get into the game.

Tells of Card Games

In a cross-examination by Mr. Michel and H. Alfred Donithen, Jones admitted that a number of card games were played in the establishment for money. He said chips were sold, some for five cents and others for twenty-five cents, for use in the games. The chips, he said, were exchanged for cash or in trade after the completion of the games. He admitted that a certain percentage was taken from each "pot" by the house.

When asked if all four of the boys tried to get in the game Jones said, "No. Only Bascos and Dutt. Hodges and Armbruster were playing pool."

According to statements of C. P. Allen, an employe at the Home cafe who was called as the prosecution's third witness, the game on at the time the youths entered the place broke up when one of the boys said, "Either we'll play or there won't be any game."

Cases Dismissed

"This was the only interference by the boys," Mr. Allen said. He added, "After the game abruptly ended I started back to the cafe, two doors north of the Playhouse. Just before I entered the cafe one of the boys said to me, 'Dad, you were lucky to get out of there without being hurt.'"

After Mr. Allen finished his testimony, Attorney Michel asked the court to dismiss the case on grounds of insufficient evidence. Judge Hazen sustained the motion.

If we could attempt both efforts at the same time, while staging frequent commando raids to keep the Germans in their defenses in France, Belgium and Holland, we could press a giant pincers upon the exposed weak flanks of the axis.

I merely offer this as a suggestion to those who are mourning since Dieppe that the Nazi position on the continent is so strongly entrenched we cannot expect victory any time soon in that area.

18-DAY SERIES OPENS AT EPWORTH CHURCH

Evangelistic Campaign in Charge of Wisconsin Group.

An 18-day evangelistic campaign opened at Epworth Methodist church last night with the Myron Taylor-Rasmussen evangelistic party from Wisconsin in charge. Dr. Taylor, who will preach, was here in a like series of meetings more than 15 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rasmussen, who will have charge of the music, will play eight different instruments during the series of meetings including the electric vibraharp, musical saw, piano, ukulele, glassaphone, auto-harp, piano accordion and xylorimba. Four of these instruments were used in the service last night. In addition, they are both singers. They will also have charge of the young people's and children's work.

Last night Dr. Taylor spoke on "Failing To Make Connections," a prayer theme, taking as his text Acts 3:1, "Now Peter and John went up together into the temple at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour." Dr. Taylor said in part, "Many things contributed to the success of the early Christian church, but the most potent factor of all is suggested by the words of our text. The early followers of the Christ were men and women of prayer.

"Just as surely as this city would be in darkness tonight if the men at the switchboard were to go to sleep and fail to make the connections, just so surely will this city or any other city be in darkness spiritually, if those called of God to spend time at the switchboard of prayer, as all Christians are, go to sleep and fail to connect up God's mighty power with the darkened souls of men.

"Wherever you find a city far gone in worldliness and sin you will find a city where there are comparatively few people who are taking time to pray. The dark ages were dark, not because of a lack of religion, but because there were so few religious people in touch with God.

The service will begin this evening at 7:30.

Flying Automobiles Forecast After War

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 16—The possibility of post-war development of flying automobiles—traveling both on land and in the air—was pictured yesterday by Eugene E. Wilson, president of the United Aircraft Corp.

Declaring that "we may witness the end of the present automobile for personal transportation," Wilson said at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon:

"Igor Sikorsky of my company has perfected the helicopter. This is a rotating wing aircraft, capable of ascending or descending vertically, moving sideways, forward or backward, and hovering under complete control. It can be built with the body of a small car. Its owner could use it as a business car, and as an airplane when distance warranted."

Four Ohio Soldiers Win Army Recognition

By The Associated Press

Four Ohio soldiers with the army air forces won recognition today on the world's far-flung battlefronts.

At General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, two Ohioans were among 11 officers and men awarded silver stars by Maj. Gen. George C. Kenny, commander of allied air forces in the south Pacific.

They were Technical Sgts. Martin F. Schadl of Akron, O., and Sam E. Weaver of Berea, O. Both are flying fortress gunners.

It also was announced that Lieut. Clifton Troxell, recipient of a silver star, lived at Ravenna, O., and not Eclectric, Ala.

On the English aerial front, Sgt. Forest W. Bertsch of Sidney, O., a Fortress gunner, was one of ten men who survived a plunge into the English channel after their big plane was shot down in a fight with Germany's famed yellow nosed squadron.

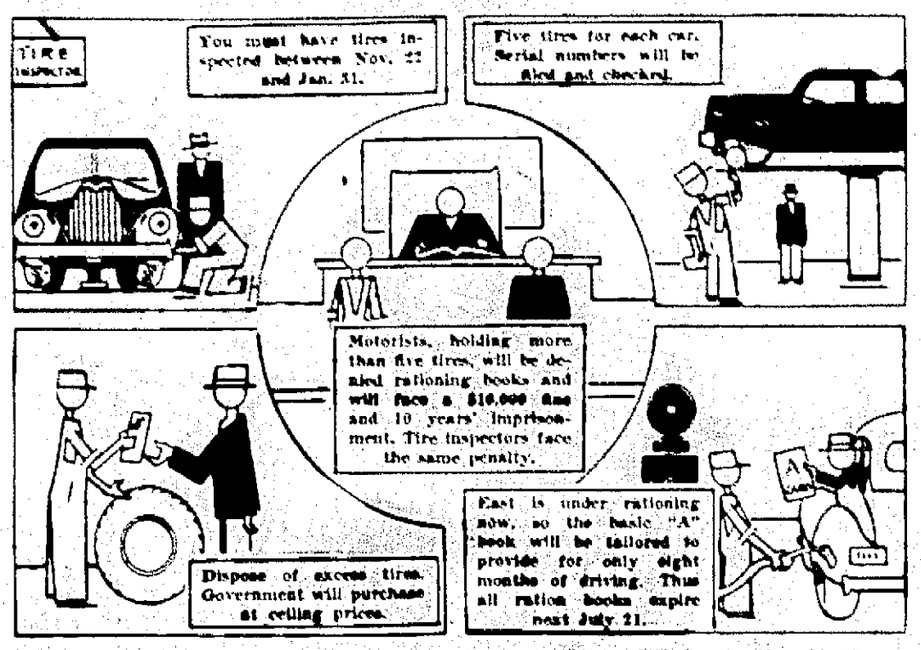
OF INTEREST TO ALL MOTORISTS THE NATION OVER



TIRE INSPECTION
You must have tires inspected between Nov. 22 and Jan. 31.
Five tires for each car. Serial numbers will be filed and checked.
Motorists, holding more than five tires, will be denied rationing books and will face a $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment. Tire inspectors face the same penalty.
East is under rationing now, so the basic "A" book will be tailored to provide for only eight months of driving. Thus all ration books expire next July 21.
Dispose of excess tires. Government will purchase at ceiling prices.

Sketches above should be of interest to all motorists, highlighting, as they do, the important features of the gasoline and tire rationing regulations being put in operation. The east already has gasoline rationing. The rest of the nation comes under that regulation Nov. 22, with registration beginning Nov. 9. In the now unrationed states, motorists will have to list all their tires by serial number and certify that they have no more than five per vehicle. Eastern motorists must dispose of their idle tires by Nov. 22. The government will purchase excess tires at ceiling prices. Within a week the government will announce how and under what conditions rubber will be provided for the "essential" mileage for all passenger cars.

PACIFIC

pose of 15,021 newly deified heroes," the Mikado's warriors on Guadalcanal faced the guns of U. S. marines reinforced by regular American army troops and planes.

"Even the Jap will agree that we have both the men and the tools for the task," was the confident expression voiced by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

The navy indicated earlier that U. S. ground forces had taken the initiative, inflicting heavy casualties on the Japanese in a two-day offensive.

As the South Seas campaign erupted to peak violence, word came from New Delhi, India, that Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander-in-chief in India, had returned from an inspection of the northwest frontier under circumstances indicating a possible allied drive to retake Burma from the Japanese.

Previously, all British forces were reported to have withdrawn into India after the disastrous Burma campaign last spring.

Wavell Eyes Burma

Reliable but unofficial sources in New Delhi said Wavell gave a "suggestion" that an attack on Burma could be expected.

A spokesman amplified this. "General Wavell's activities," he said, "were a practical illustration of his recent statement that reoccupation of Burma is now foremost in his mind."

Observers pointed out that American and allied bombers in recent weeks have stepped up their assaults on the Japanese base at Akyab, on the Bay of Bengal just below the Indian frontier, and other targets in Burma.

Other developments in the Far Pacific struggle:

Madagascar — British troops pressing their occupation of 1,000-mile-long French Madagascar island off the coast of southeast Africa, were officially reported to have captured Ambositra, 142 miles below the fallen capital city of Tananarive.

New Guinea Front—Australian troops driving toward the Japanese base at Kokoda were reported exerting strong pressure on the enemy on the summit of the mile-high Owen Stanley mountains, while American Havocs and Airacobras bombed and machine-gunned enemy troop columns.

Solomons Battle Has Direct Bearing on War in Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

LONDON, Oct. 16—The battle of the Solomons is vying with the now-or-never Nazi assault on the Caucasus in British attention, since military experts here recognize that the trend of the Pacific fighting might affect the extent of America's immediate concentration on the primary objective—the smashing of Germany.

London newspapers, although most of them are reduced to four pages or the equivalent in format, today are running three and four columns under front page headlines with maps on the Japanese offensive.

Meanwhile, Hitler is continuing with modifications of his race against time to consolidate his position in southwestern Russia before winter overtakes him.

As predicted, the fuehrer also is increasing his effort to secure a line of Caucasus mountain foothills running east and west across the isthmus between the Black and Caspian seas.

Hitler has two main objectives in this augmented drive along the line of mountains.

For one thing, on the Caspian side he wants to cut Russian communications with the Persian gulf. The gulf is, of course, one of the two remaining Red lifelines to the outside world, the other being the hazardous passage through the Arctic to Murmansk.

The Nazi chief's other purpose is to thrust down the Black sea coast and rob the Russian fleet of its harbors.

If he could fight his way as far south as Batum he would deprive the Reds of their last anchorage and thereby secure control of the Black sea. This would be an asset of incalculable importance for further operations against the Middle East and Eastern Mediterranean.

The way the Russians have been holding he has before him a task so great that the danger of his breaking through into the southern Caucasus thus far is rather remote.

One can go even further and says the Nazi all-highest is a badly worried, desperate man.

While fighting can continue in the Caucasus even during the winter, operations inevitably must slow down.

Furthermore the German striking power both in men and material is badly in need of a rest and overhaul. Hitler's chances of success now are as far off as the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, and he can't even see the rainbow.

Meister, superintendent of the Norwalk district of the Northeast Ohio conference, and Rev. Walter Eyster, pastor of the church. Bishop Smith will deliver the sermon. In the last two years 121 of the 338 members of the church have been added to the church roll under the ministry of the present pastor. Rev. First Cabinet Member to Visit British Isles.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 16 — Henry Morgenthau Jr., United States secretary of the treasury, was disclosed today to have arrived by plane in Britain yesterday, the first United States cabinet member to come here since the start of the war.

Morgenthau's arrival was unheralded and the purpose of his trip was unknown, but he was expected to give some indication of his mission at a press conference this afternoon.

On his arrival, Morgenthau conferred with United States ambassador John G. Winant.

One possible point expected from conferences with British officials would be "reciprocal aid," the reverse part of the lend-lease plan, under which Britain is giving the United States war supplies involving many millions of dollars in bookkeeping exchange.

Jeffers Visits More Akron Rubber Plants

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Oct. 16—Hunting ways to "keep this nation on rubber to preserve its economic life," Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers today scheduled tours of Akron tire plants he has not already visited.

Here for a personal inspection of the rubber industry and to confer with its leaders, Jeffers held out some hope of tires for "the average American."

"If people respond to our requests to go easy on their tires, there will be some rubber left over after military needs and essential workers are supplied," he told newsmen yesterday. "We've got to keep this nation on rubber to preserve its economic life."

He made it clear that tires for civilians would depend greatly upon gasoline rationing and rigid observance of the rubber-saving, 35-mile speed limit.

CHILD KIDNAPED IN WEST LOCATED

Man and Wife Held at Grants Pass, Ore.

By The Associated Press

RED BLUFF, Calif., Oct. 16—Brown-eyed Little Vivian Miller wanted impatiently in Grants Pass, Ore., for her "real daddy" today as police at Red Bluff, Calif., held a man and his wife who confessed they kidnaped the 4-year-old girl. They were quoted as saying they had always wanted a child of their own.

Vivian was found unharmed in a Grants Pass school yesterday. Almost simultaneously—though it did not become known for some time—Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont B. Du Bois of Portland, Ore., were arrested near here for questioning. Several hours later Du Bois, in the presence of his wife and three officials, dictated a brief statement confessing the kidnaping, said Sheriff James N. Froome. Both he and his wife signed it.

In San Francisco, Mrs. Louise Miller, the child's mother, cried for joy when informed that Vivian had been found safe. Later she talked by telephone with Vivian in Grants Pass.

"It was wonderful to hear her voice," the mother said.

"Thank God, she's well," commented Morris Miller, the child's father, a shipyard worker.

Miller came face to face with Du Bois in the sheriff's office. He had considerable difficulty in controlling himself and officers had to hold him at one time when he muttered, "just let me have one crack at him; that's all I want, just one crack at the guy."

The two inspectors, Marvin B. Donell and John O'Connell, said Du Bois told them he had served one term at McNeil Island prison on a Dyer act charge, and two terms in San Quentin, one for forgery and another for automobile theft.

Six Men Drowned In Army Tank Maneuvers

By The Associated Press

WITH THE SECOND ARMY, SOMEWHERE IN TENNESSEE, Oct. 16—Six men drowned in the Cumberland river last night when two 28-ton tanks rolled off a pontoon bridge during a blackout movement.

The accident occurred off Jones island near Old Hickory.

The column of medium tanks was crossing the river on steel tracks floated by rubber pontoons when the tracks of one of the tanks rolled off the bridge roadway.

The resulting shift of weight tipped the bridge and the tank immediately ahead of the first to go into the river rolled backwards into the hole left by the first tank.

The driver of the tank in the rear quickly threw his machine into reverse and succeeded in saving himself and his crew. Rubber reconnaissance boats immediately launched from the bank saved five men.

Pending recovery of the bodies, names of those drowned were withheld.

Crane Shakes Big Deposit from Safe

By The United Press

TOMS RIVER, N. J.—The papa who shakes junior's piggy bank has nothing on the directors of the Ocean County Trust Co.

A big truck backed up before the building and workmen hoisted a four-ton safe into the vehicle. It was 35 years old, bell-shaped and five inches thick.

Accompanied by a county detective, local policemen and state troopers armed with sawed-off shotguns, the truck carted the safe to the end of town. A crane picked up the safe, turned it upside down and shook it. It was then hauled back to town.

"What actually happened," a director said, "was that the safe locked on us and we couldn't get it open."

Safe experts had been called in. They had tried every trick, even removed the combination. Finally they decided that a small pin had dropped out of place, and the only way to make it fall back into place was to turn the safe upside down and shake it.

The safe contained $70,000.

Food Shortage Ahead, Manufacturer Warns

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — Unless immediate steps are taken to coordinate this country's system for food production and distribution, a "major food shortage is a certainty," Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, said today.

"A scandal far greater than the rubber situation looms in the near future," Willis declared, "and it can be averted only if immediate, official recognition is given to the problems of this industry by America's war leaders."

Township Forms Organization for Wartime Service

Plans to change the peacetime activities of the Pleasant township community organization into a consolidated war effort were made at a meeting last night at the school. This is the first township in the county to report a countywide organization for war work.

Allen Cook, president, appointed the following men to act as an advisory board to coordinate the work of all other agencies in the community: Carl Hosh, LeRoy Zachman, Lawrence Mautz, Harley Mayers, Paul Augenstein, Walter Rehner and F. E. Hamming.

Mansfield Boy Can Take It, and He Means Take It

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 16—Eleven-year-old Peter Logos describes his participation in the fats-for-explosives campaign:

"I went into the kitchen and saw some fat so I started in melt a strip of fat, it caught fire, I blowed on it and it increased so I picked it up with a towel and dropped the towel and so picked it up with my bare hand. Burned my left hand badly (three fingers) and I mean burned terribly but if American soldiers can take it from bombing I guess I can take it from fat."

Peter described his efforts in a bedtime note to his mother, Mrs. J. G. Logos, who was out for the evening when Peter's patriotism flamed.

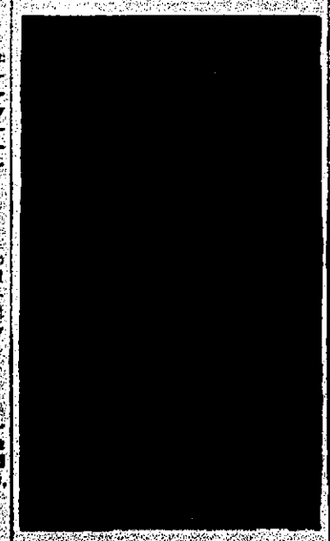
MAKES TINLESS CAN



A hoped resolve to find a means of strengthening paper has resulted in the discovery of a plastic-coated, 3-ply paper to take the place of tin cans, Chemist Albert A. Batchelor of the Macmillan Research and Development Laboratories, Los Angeles, almost lost his life at 9 when he made a paper glider and jumped from a two-story window. After much research, he developed the new container which is durable, leak-proof, and impervious to oil.

seriously damaged a Japanese light cruiser.

Allied ground troops were battling the invaders in New Guinea, about midway from the Japanese base at Buna and the allied Port Moresby base. The communique did not disclose progress of the battle.

The Japanese raid on the Guadalcanal airfield was made by 27 bombers yesterday, Solomons time. The results were not reported immediately.

The navy announced, however, that three enemy transports previously reported damaged by bombs were observed to have been beached by the Japanese and still were burning yesterday.

As strengthening of marine forces by American army troops on Guadalcanal was made known, Admiral Chester M. Nimitz expressed belief at Pearl Harbor that "even the Jap will agree that we have both the men and the tools for the task" in the Solomons.

Declaring, however, that the task was "tremendous," the admiral added that "it will go tougher as we go forward. The end is not yet in sight."

men were available, the committee adopted another amendment to make drafting follow lines based on the degree of dependency.

Under the amendment, no married man would be inducted while there were single men available in his state; no married men with children would be put into uniform while there were available married men without children.

Under present policy, Kilday said, a local board drafts married men if it has no available single men, while an adjoining board in the same community may have more single men than it needs.

Also approved were amendments to permit the enlistment of youths over 17 without parental consent. Consent now is required for enlistments under 21.

IN THIS EMERGENCY HAVE YOU FAILED?

YOU know that unless we round up millions of tons of scrap metal, steel mills will shut down and we may lose the war.

Have you pitched in and done your part? Or have you gone your own sweet way—stepping around your neighbor's scrap, piled on the sidewalk, and letting the pleas of our fighting men bounce off you like bare fists off a German tank?

DON'T BE A SCRAP SLACKER!

Wars aren't won by good intentions, or by sitting around back home, spouting about how things should be done. They're won by action . . . and by steel!

This is a simple thing that's asked of you. You haven't had to stand up under endless bombings, the way the people of London have. Or been forced to leave your homes and farms, the way the Russians and the Chinese have.

We know there's been a lot of scrap turned in—but it's not enough. Every possible pound is needed now, or will be. We've got to get the metal out of homes, farms, and factories —and pile it up where it can be used instantly.

Right here in this community, we want to build a stockpile so big that it will take months to sort it and use it up. These ugly heaps of twisted, broken metal are the finest scenery in all the land. They are the mounting evidence that we're in this war all the way—to win!

Don't put this thing off! Don't "let George do it"! Go into your cellar, storeroom, attic, or garage and dig the stuff out. If you've already done this, look again for more. Not next week—NOW!

WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR SCRAP

Your scrap should be turned in this week if it is to be counted in as part of the yield of Marion county's intensive scrap metal campaign. Here's what to do:

If you live in the residential part of Marion, call your nearest elementary school and arrangements will be made to pick up your donation.

If you have scrap at your place of business in the downtown area, call Harding High school, 4293, and a truck will be sent for it.

If you live outside the city, call your nearest school

If you want your donation to go to St. Mary Parochial school, call Rev. Father W. J. Spickerman at 5118.

SCHOOLS READY TO HELP WITH GAS RATIONING

Will Help Insure Ration Cards To Motorists.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16.—Ohio's school system is prepared for the Nov. 9-11 registration of motorists for gasoline rationing, State Education Director Kenneth C. Ray said yesterday.

"We are set to cooperate as we did in connection with sugar rationing," he declared, commenting on a letter from U. S. Commissioner of Education J. W. Studebaker outlining the plan of the mileage rationing program.

"In this new emergency situation," wrote Studebaker, "the government again turns to the schools to do the work of registering and of issuing ration books.

"At the school registration site, the consumer will receive a basic ration book upon presentation of his application and the tire inspection record. All ration books except the basic one will be issued by the local rationing boards. Application blanks for obtaining these books can be obtained at the time of the registration."

N.C.O. Title at Stake in Harding-Ashland Tilt Tonigh

A's Coach Denies Report Local Practices Scouted.

Marion Harding's football Presidents, present holders of the North Central Ohio conference championship, face a formidable A-hland team tonight at 8:30 in Harding stadium with its league crown at stake. Winner of the game is almost certain to reap the 1942 title.

In a statement issued to The Star this morning, Coach A. L. Buckner, coach of the A's, denied a report that Ashland scouts had watched Harding practices before the Mt. Vernon and Lima Central Game.

Coach Buckner, head coach at Ashland for the last three years and assistant for years before that, said Ashland had scouted the Harding-Mt. Vernon game two weeks ago, but that "there has been absolutely no scouting since."

"Undoubtedly there are Ashland residents working in Marion war plants, and some of these might have watched Harding workouts," Coach Buckner continued. "However, we have had no rep rts covering Harding practices," he added.

The Ashland coach, and many fans as well, had interpreted an earlier news report to mean that scouts had been sent here to spy on Harding workouts. While it is accepted form to scout future opponent's' games, it is strictly against ethics to scout practices, Coach Buckner asserted.

Acting on word from several members of the Harding team, Marion Coach Victor A. Dorris ordered Harding practices inside of the stadium. Gates were closed to all except Harding partisans.

Reprinted from Tuesday's edition of The Star is the account which stirred up resentment in Ashland:

After hearing a report of several team members that Ashland scouts had been watching the Hardings' daily workouts, Head Coach Victor Dorris announced Monday night that all practices this week would be held on the stadium field. Admittance to both the stadium and field has been restricted to Harding partisans only.

In Ashland this was interpreted to mean that Ashland had sent scouts to watch Harding practice.

Speaking for Coach Dorris, the school and Harding fans in general, Principal O. H. P. Snyder of Harding today talked with S. F. Jameson, Ashland High school principal. Mr. Snyder made it clear that Harding did not charge Ashland with sending scouts here. He also explained that Coach Dorris reported to The Star that members of the Harding team had seen Ashlanders at the practice field.

Mr. Jameson, like Mr. Buckner, said that the persons were probably Ashland people now employed at one of this city's war plants.

Aside from the misunderstanding between the two, schools Ashland still rated as a strong pre-game favorite to defeat the Hardings and thereby make a strong bid for the league title. Harding wound up its preliminary practices in a session

BILL DURTSCHI OUT, PUNTER SOUGHT BY OHIO STATE COACH

Knee Injury Benches Galion Star; Fekete Uncertain; Three Ends Out.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—The injury problem bobbed up anew today to strip Ohio State's football team of the favorite role in tomorrow's clash with Purdue. . .

The undefeated Bucks, despite their designation by sports writers as the nation's top grid team, get only an even break on the odds because injuries will keep Ohio's veteran ends and best punter on the bench and may limit the effectiveness of their backfield ace, Gene Fekete, the Big Ten's leading scorer.

Suffers Foot Infection

Fullback Fekete, mainstay of the Buck ground offensive, developed a foot infection yesterday, and although Coach Paul E. Brown expects to play him the Ohio mentor doesn't know "know good he condition will be."

Fekete, who handles the after-touchdown placements for the Bucks, reported for practice with his kicking foot so sore he couldn't put his weight on it, Brown said. A slight operation performed by Dr. Walter Duffee, team physician, eased the pain, however, and it was thought Fekete would be in shape for the Purdue battle.

Buckeye punting, which Brown says is none too good at best, becomes even more dubious with the the loss of Bill Durtsent of Galion from knee injury.

Brown plans to start Bill Sedor, a junior from Shadyside, at left end. Top flankermen Dante Lavelli, Don Steinberg and John White are injured and out of the line-up.

The Boilermakers cast themselves in the role of giant killers in upsetting Northwestern 7-6 last week after dropping two games.

Purdue will seek its second win

Hinkle Says Great Lakes Will Use Two Teams To Cope with Wisconsin Scorers

Harder, Hoskins, Hirsch Are Chief Badger Ground Gainers.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—Undefeated Wisconsin should give the Great Lakes Bluejackets an "H—" of a tough time in Soldier field tomorrow led by its T.N.T. trio of Harder, Hirsch and Hoskins.

The game with the ponderous Sailors will be the Badgers' last before starting Big Ten competition in search of their first conference championship since 1912. A crowd of about 45,000 was forecast.

The 3-H boys—Fullback Pat Harder and Halfbacks Elroy Hirsch and Mark Hoskins—have dashed off an average of 61 yards for the top rushing mark in Wisconsin history.

Sophomore Hirsch has contributed four touchdowns and averaged 7.5 yards in 49 carries. Hoskins, a senior, has done some notable passing and has averaged 5.1 yards. Harder, the conference's leading ground gainer and scorer as a sophomore last year, has averaged 4.4, but his unsung asset has been blocking.

The Bluejackets will employ the two-team system to test the Badgers' reputedly weak reserves. Each of the alternating teams will have a terrific weight advantage, reaching as much as 15 pounds to the man.

"The men will be ready mentally and physically for this one," Coach Clark Hinkle said, hinting that Great Lakes should play its best game of the season.

To Play In Wooster Game

Carl Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Robinson of 688 Windsor street, who is a junior at Wooster college and a member of the football squad, will play in the Wooster-Muskingum football game Oct. 24, according to a college news service report. The game is a highlight of the school's twenty-fourth annual homecoming and the sixteenth annual Dad's day program. Robinson is enrolled in the college of education.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—One reason why Ohio State is rated the No. 1 football team so far is that Paul Brown tells his boys to take a chance with running the ball instead of kicking when they have a foot or two to go on fourth down....And so far they've been getting away with it....And Bernie Bierman, whose Minnesota teams seldom passed, has become air-minded since he shifted to the navy's Iowa pre-flight school....The Seahawks have thrown 50 passes and completed 28 in four games... Ezzard Charles, the Cincinnati high school kid who is rated one of the best middleweight fighters in the business, will take on heavyweight Joey Maxim at Pittsburgh Oct. 27.

PURDUE TEAM RIPE FOR MISCHIEF, BUT OHIO STATE FAVORED

Iowa Naval, Indiana, Illini and Wisconsin Picked by Barker.

By HERB BARKER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Taking the weekly buzzy ride along the football guessing trail:

Iowa Naval-Notre Dame: Maybe there's some place along their tough schedule that Bernie Bierman's Pre-Flighters are going to tumble. These naval outfits, with their wealth of manpower, apparently are not so susceptible to slumps as are ordinary college teams. Iowa Naval.

Tulane-Georgia: Sinkwich and Trippe give Georgia a terrific scoring punch. Georgia.

Princeton-Penn: The Tigers furnished a big surprise last week in the upset of Navy. But—Penn.

Army-Columbia: With due respect for the passing prowess of Columbia's Paul Governal, this vote goes to Army.

Tennessee-Alabama: Two bitter rivals, each with plenty of football talent. With not a little trepidation, Alabama.

Texas Christian-Texas A. and M.: The Cadets seem to have fallen upon evil football days. T.C.U.

Washington State-Southern California: A hunch that Southern California is due to start moving. U.S.C.

U.C.L.A.-California: U.C.L.A.

Duquesne-North Carolina: Close enough. Duquesne gets this shaky ballot.

Dartmouth - Harvard: Dartmouth.

Yale-Navy: Might develop into one of the day's most interesting duels. Out of the hat, Navy.

Penn State-Cornell: On the toss of a coin. Penn State.

Duke-Colgate: Stringing along with Colgate in what may be an exceptionally close match.

West Virginia-Fordham: Fordham.

Indiana-Pitt: The Panthers have been tough. They'll be tough again but this guesser takes Indiana.

Northwestern-Michigan: Plenty of fireworks here. Michigan.

Purdue-Ohio State: The Boilermakers knocked off Northwestern last week and are ripe for more mischief. Still, Ohio State.

Wisconsin-Great Lakes: Staying with Wisconsin.

Minnesota - Nebraska: Minnesota.

Illinois-Iowa: On the strength of its unexpected victory over Minnesota Illinois must be picked but beware of the Hawkeyes.

Southern Methodist - Temple: The long trip won't do the Owls any good. S.M.U.

Skipping over the chalklines: Michigan State over Marquette. Kentucky over Virginia Tech.

RICKEY SAYS HIS PLANS AREN'T MADE

Declares He Doesn't Know What He'll Do Next Season.

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Oct. 16 — There has been some talk in baseball circles that Branch Rickey, general manager of the world champion Cardinals, plans to join the Brooklyn Dodgers or the St. Louis Browns.

Well, he won't talk much about that—but he said this last night.

The Cardinals will win the National league pennant in 1943, probably by beating the New York Giants.

In reply to a question concerning St. Louis rumors that he would quit the Cardinals and become affiliated with the reorganized American league Browns, Rickey said:

"If any man knows what I am going to do next season, he has me bested because I don't know myself."

Northwestern Favored Over Michigan

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 — Here's looking at the Western conference football games Saturday through rose colored glasses—which usually results in mud in your eyes:

Northwestern at Michigan: A flyer on Northwestern, battling to stay in the running for the championship. . . . Coach Lynn Waldorf says his Wildcats are mentally set for this one after their loss to Purdue, and Otto Graham is reported back in form. . . . Michigan will be waiting with Tom Kuzma, who pitched two touchdown passes to pilot the Wolverines to a 14 to 7 victory last year.

Purdue at Ohio State: The Buckeyes even though riddled by injuries should live up to their No. 1 national ranking.

Illinois at Iowa: The Illini haven't defeated Iowa since 1927, although tieing the Hawks twice in the meantime. . . . A weak nod to the Hawkeyes, whose greatest trouble will be catching Don Griffin.

Wisconsin vs. Great Lakes at Soldier Field: The Badgers, with Elroy Hirsch and Pat Harder, have too much power and speed. . . . It looks as if Wisconsin will keep its unbeaten record.

Minnesota at Nebraska: The Hoosiers should be in their best shape of the season with injured players, including Bill "Hurricane" Hillenbrand, ready for the Panthers. . . . Pitt should be due for more bouncing.

• • •

Minnesota at Nebraska: The Gophers will prove they still are one of the greatest units in the business.

Suggests Boxing Titles Be Frozen for Duration

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16—Jerry Giesler, chairman of the California Boxing commission, sees no reason why a fighting man, when he swaps the padded mitts for a rifle and goes to the wars, should find himself in danger of being deprived of whatever championship boxing baubles he may have picked up along the way.

So Giesler has proposed to Abe J. Green, New Jersey, president of the National Boxing Association, that the titles of any champions now in the armed services or who enter them subsequently, be "frozen" for the duration.

Points to Need Of Galion School Levy

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 16—In addition to regular school maintenance, three projects important to Galionites, depend on the renewal of the two and one-half mill levy at the November elections Superintendent M. A. Povenmire said today. Heise Park with its recreational sports facilities is a school sponsored project which receives some aid from the municipal government. However, the vocational machine shop, as well as the recently opened evening commercial courses for adults are sponsored entirely by the school program.

The nursery school for children of employed mothers as well as kindergarten are under the auspices of the board of education. The levy has been carried since 1920, with the exception of two years in 1935 and 1936.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—The question of whether suits involving military service men can be postponed "for the duration" and if motorists must display driving licenses on demand of state highway patrolmen are up for consideration by the Ohio supreme court this term.

There are 35 other general docket cases to be heard on their merits and 96 motions to be considered before the court recesses in December. The court reconvened Sept. 22 after its June 12 recess.

Court Clerk Seba Miller said 112 actions were pending last Jan. 1 compared with 88 at the start of 1941 and 171 a year earlier. The number of cases pending has shrunk since the record of 841 in 1913 before the state constitution was changed to allow the court to decide whether it would hear actions.

The usual seven-member court, presided over by Justice Carl V. Weygandt of Lakewood, now has only six members as a result of the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati last summer. His seat will be filled at the Nov. 3 election.

Judge Weygandt, now in his 10th year on the high court bench, has been justice since Jan. 1, 1933. Veteran of the tribunal is Judge Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert, now serving his 28th year. Other members are Judges Edward C. Turner of Columbus, Roy H. Williams of Sandusky, William L. Hart of Alliance and Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield.

The drivers' license question is contained in the appeal of G. L. Schilling, Clinton county prosecutor, from an appellate court decision reversing a lower court conviction of Elon Farren, a farmer, charged with refusing to show his operator's permit as requested by state highway patrolmen.

The patrolmen stopped Farren on Route 3 last year for questioning and haled him into court. Farren was indicted by a county grand jury, convicted in common pleas court and fined $10 and costs. The appellate court reversed the decision and ordered proceedings dismissed. The supreme court will hear Schilling's appeal Nov. 10.

Nov. 24, the court will consider the request of William C. Buck to require a Lucas county common pleas court to hear a damage suit it stayed for duration of the war because the defendant was in military service and unable to attend proceedings.

Buck sued William E. Pollock, a minor, following a Dec. 11, 1940, traffic accident. Pollock enlisted in the Royal Canadian air force before the case came to trial. Pollock's guardian told the court he was stationed in England and the case was suspended. The appellate court refused to issue a writ requiring the lower court to hear the case and Buck appealed to the supreme court.

Public war construction accounted for almost 65 per cent of all construction in the United States in the second quarter of this year, according to the department of commerce.

Scrap Drive Directors Named in Morrow County

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 16—Clay Benz and Elwood Davis were appointed salvage directors for Morrow county this week by Sheriff Sam Richardson, who resigned two weeks ago. Mr. Benz is Morrow county AAA chairman and Mr. Davis is county extension agent.

The quota for scrap in the county is far from being collected at this time. Intensive drives, however, are being carried out by the schools which should raise quantities of scrap. Edison schools already have a huge scrap pile on the school lawn and Cardington schools report the collection of 30 tons of metal.

WHEAT QUOTATIONS MOVE NERVOUSLY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 — Wheat prices fluctuated within a range of almost a cent a bushel today, alternating above and below previous closing levels, as the trade continued to mark time pending decision on what ceilings, if any, are to be applied to grains.

Other cereals behaved similarly, although short covering gave rye a stronger tone. Soybeans tumbled almost 3 cents a bushel to new seasonal lows as harvesting operations expanded.

SELLING TIDE RECEDES TODAY

Timid Buying, However, Is Handicap to Market Recovery.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Selling dried up to a considerable extent in today's stock market although buying timidity persisted as a recovery handicap.

Scant bullish inspiration was discerned in the battle news from Stalingrad and the Solomons but a little bidding cropped up on the idea the two-day stumble provided at least a partial correction of the lengthy upswing.

Rails were ragged and most commodities lower.

Among resistant stocks were Western Union, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Du Pont and Kennecott. On the offside most of the time were American Telephone, down a point or more, N. Y. Central, General Motors, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Texas Co, Gospitch, Anaconda, Caterpillar Tractor and Boeing.

The earnings outlook came up for market appraisal in the light of General Electric's Bemenths' statement revealing that, notwithstanding a substantial upturn in business, net per share amounted to $1.06 against $1.30 in the like 1941 stretch. Unusually heavy tax provisions accounted for the discrepancy.

Holders of rails remained moderately cheerful over the Southern Pacific $1 dividend, first since 1932.

Farmers To Register for Truck Permits

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—Ohio farmers will register Oct. 22-24 for wartime transportation certificates that will enable them to keep their products and supplies rolling to and from the farm.

Elmer F. Kruse, agricultural war board chairman for Ohio, said that farmers would be required to produce the certificates to obtain tires, tubes, recaps, repair parts, gasoline and other fuels.

The certificates, covering trucks and trailers primarily, will apply to every approved vehicle "propelled or drawn" by mechanical power and equipped with tires, said Kruse. Passenger automobiles are excepted.

The miles travelled and weight of cargo of such farm vehicles will determine the amount of fuel allotted to each operator, a war board spokesman said. Office of defense transportation regulations also require that tires be checked every 5,000 miles or each 60 days.

Floods Sweep Over Third of Virginia

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 16—Floods disrupted road, rail and power service in a third of Virginia today after forcing hundreds of persons to evacuate their homes.

Hardest hit was the Shenandoah valley where the Shenandoah river swept far out of its banks and caused property loss approximating that done by devastating floods in 1936. Waters put Harrisburg's two municipal plants out of operation and left that city in darkness last night.

Waters began pouring over the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad's tracks near Fredericksburg late Thursday to halt heavy traffic on that New York-Florida link.

Old-Age Ills

The introduction of the new medical specialty of geriatrics and the new science of gerontology is a natural result of the enormous relative increase in the older population group.

Geriatrics is the study of diseases among the aged, and gerontology is the study of the aging process itself. Whether they will ever establish themselves as definite specialties is open to some doubt, well expressed by my friend, Dr. Harry Beckman, of Milwaukee, in his classic textbook, "Treatment in General Practice."

Dr. Beckman says that young men are being urged to specialize in geriatrics as they used to be in pediatrics the specialty of the diseases of childhood. But as far as the future of the two specialties is concerned, pediatrics is more successful because, first, the child has no objection to being a child and knows he will soon get over it, whereas the oldster has been dreading age all his life and knows it will continue and get worse. Furthermore, old people don't like to admit they are old, and don't like it known that they are being attended by an "old age" specialist.

Then the child has resilience on his side and there is more hope in treating it. You are saving him for something, if it is only for the future. And finally, old people are really not subject to any special diseases, while children are.

On the good side is that old people are very grateful for the comfort that some of the little tricks the geriatrician uses in treatment give. And from the doctor's standpoint there is an advantage, in that a man of fifty is likely to be better pay than a kid of five.

In a symposium on geriatrics held at the College of Physicians the following points were brought out.

All the tissues of the body do not age at the same rate. The aging process is poorly understood, and is probably dependent on the natural shrinkage of the collagen tissue.

There is little relation between nutrition and longevity, but heredity plays a basic part.

Specialists in geriatrics do not believe in retirement from active life for elderly people unless it is absolutely necessary. It should, at any rate, be very gradual and besides, is now almost impossible.

The age at which a person becomes a geriatric patient is 60.

The common diseases among old people are of the heart, circulation, respiratory system, chronic cough and bronchitis, locomotion system, cancer (15 per cent), eyes and ears, diabetes, mental disturbance and alcoholism.

The aged stand surgery well and drugs poorly.

The prime physical characteristics of healthy old people are that they have good teeth and eat good breakfasts.

The advantageous mental and emotional qualities of older people are poise, judgment, staying on the job, optimism and "slow to anger."

In diet do not allow the elderly to take too much liquid and soft food. Try food that is stimulating to the appetite.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

CAROLYN, who apparently did not hear my entrance, was lying on the couch, a crumpled and forlorn figure, one arm flung over her eyes. When Miss Whitlock had left, at my silent gesture, I said softly, "Carol, dear."

She threw up her arm as if I had struck her, gazed wildly at me, then started to rise.

"Don't get up, dear child," I said. "I want to talk to you."

"You—you aren't mad at me any longer?" she said like a wondering child.

"No, dear," I said gently, "not any more. You see, we heard everything you said while alone with that man. We had to, darling, for your own protection. Before he warned you to be still we heard you beg him to tell you about Marion. Then we knew you had no guilty knowledge of where Marion is."

"Oh, Auntie Madge," she wailed, "can you ever forgive me? I've been so bad to you!"

Madge Believes Her

Although my heart had been so filled with disgust and anger against her that I never had dreamed I could feel compassion for her, I believed in the genuineness of this outburst.

I was quite sure it was the real thing, and took her in my arms as I would have comforted any sobbing child.

"Cry it all out, Carolyn," I said soothingly. "It's the best thing for you. Then we'll forget everything that's gone before this, and start afresh."

"But Ronald and Aunt Lillian," she faltered, her cheeks flushing scarlet, "they think—"

"I shall tell them the truth as soon as I see them," I said, "and I am sure you will find that they have forgiven you."

"But if you heard everything we said, you heard me promise him that I would see his friend as soon as I can. How can any of you forgive me for that?"

"Because, Carolyn," I said slowly, with emphasis, "I am sure you do not intend to keep that promise."

"I—I don't want to," she said. "But—you don't know what awful things he threatens if I don't."

"I think I can imagine," I told her. "He tells you he knows where Marion is, and that if you do not do as he asks he will see that she is subjected to terrible tortures."

"He's—how do you know?"

"Because there could be no other reason, except the guilt of which we have absolved you, for your terror of that man. Now listen quietly while I tell you why you need no longer fear any of his threats."

"You've already told me the glorious news that Rico never will be free again," she said, "but is a friend of his is still at large."

"And just how," I asked, "is Rico going to get word to his friend about what he wants you to do?"

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Oct. 17

THE LUNAR transits in operation on this day point to several prospects of promise, with peculiar trends and experiences. While there may be a dramatic and thrilling situation, at the same time a stabilizing and conservative influence is at work. There may be secret affairs or unique adventure of a psychic or inexplicable nature. There may be quite romantic experiences, with a tendency to overdo generosity and extravagance. Public lures may rise to the front, or group activities.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of the sudden and dramatic, with many strange experiences. Romance also beckons, with a temptation to spend lavishly on the beloved. Other reckless testimonies are shown, but at the same time there may be a surprising and unpredictable adventure, or progress in a cherished desire. Expect the unexpected.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally talented in diverse ways; its versatility expressed in a number of creative ways—science, invention, travel or in an artistic or mystic art form.
